

ETHICAL THINKING

We have always worked with natural materials and we don't take that responsibility lightly. All our European oak is individually sourced from FSC-Certified sawmills and only from countries with a long, proven commitment to reforestation and sustainability. The partners we choose are like-minded and we don't collaborate unless we know they adhere to ethical and fair labour practices. And our range of wood and stone is exceptional, but never at a cost to the environment. Even the dedication we show in training young apprentices and passing down valuable skills and experience is an indication of our forward thinking approach. We understand it's a privilege to work the way we do and enjoying that pleasure in perpetuity means ensuring every Strathearn floor is beautiful, long lasting and entirely ethical.
